SPANISH COMMUNITY OF WALLINGFORD

NASA Astro Camp

Developed with NASA based activities, NASA Astro Camp participants will explore what it really means to be an astronaut and an aerospace engineer through engaging hands-on activities. Our camp will highlight the principles of engineering through hands-on NASA themed activities in which they will apply the engineering design process to solve problems and generate solutions. Students will be building, launching, and exploring structures used in space exploration while thinking about the scientific factors that go into real NASA space explorations. The emphasis is on students understanding that engineers must imagine and plan before they begin to create and test. Come join us for a great time and explore the wonders of space science.
